Five of the new faculty members at Rhode Island college are graduates of the College:

Robert E. Viens '61, Instructor in Physical Science, has taught in Cranston and in Portsmouth;
Barbara A. Chaika '61, Assistant Professor of Elementary Education, holds a M.A., Teachers College, Columbia University; was a teacher and cooperating instructor at Joslin Street School, Providence;
Dr. Maureen T. Lapan '53, Associate Professor of Secondary Education, earned her A.M. at Brown University and her Ph.D. at the University of Connecticut as a Lecturer and Assistant Professor, University of Connecticut;
Ann Sullivan Weaver (Mrs. Joseph) '49, Assistant Professor of Elementary Education, has an M.S. from the University of Rhode Island; has taught in Newport and Rehoboth, has been supervising teacher in Barrington and Newport, and a teacher in Davidson County, Tennessee and at the Child Study Center at Peabody; was Assistant Professor at Southern Connecticut State College; and Claire Y. Poirier '62, Instructor in French attended Middlebury College and the University of Strasbourg; taught French in the Barrington Schools.

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN
The announced resignation of President Gaige was received with regret by those of us who have been privileged to work with him over many years. On behalf of all alumni members I extend grateful appreciation for his contributions to our College and offer warm wishes to him and Mrs. Gaige as they prepare to walk a road of new challenges.

On July 11th the Board of Trustees invited the Alumni Association to suggest criteria to be used in choosing a new President for Rhode Island College. The Executive Committee met on July 29th and arrived at some general qualities which we felt a successor to President Gaige should possess. We are particularly grateful to the Board for the confidence they have shown in the alumni by asking our help in the selection of the new President of Rhode Island College.

Alumni are welcome to all the activities on campus whether sponsored by the alumni or some other branch of the College community. I particularly urge all alumni to actively participate in the events that make up this year’s alumni calendar.

Sincerely yours,
FRANK M. BURNS
Alumni President
William C. Gaige

A Tribute

by JAMES P. ADAMS

In the departure of William Gaige, Rhode Island College, Rhode Island education and the State of Rhode Island will be losing an able public servant, a perceptive educator and a highly responsible citizen. I speak with intimate knowledge of what his presence has meant to the institution over which he has presided.

The measure of his contribution to the life of the College is not to be found in the degree or extent of his presidency. No individual can effect so great a change in the ongoing life of an institution which has roots and experience and dedicated purpose and a warranted pride in its institutional integrity. Dr. Gaige himself is the first to make this point and this admission is a part of his contribution.

There can be no doubt regarding the transformation which has taken place in the life of Rhode Island College: its name, its location, its physical domicile, its institutional reach, its educational focus, its academic standing and its relations with other educational enterprises, especially the schools. These changes have been almost revolutionary in their total effect. But the significant contribution of William Gaige is the spirit in which it was brought about. That was largely in his hands and he leaves it as his legacy to an institution which is immeasurably stronger because of the spirit in which he presided over its growth and soothed its growing pains.

In the first place, William Gaige never undervalued the institution he found when he came or those who had been the guardians of its life and labors. He shared pride in its long history, in its place in the educational economy of the State for almost a hundred years, in the dedicated devotion of its staff and in the achievements of its graduates. He shared with his associates in the Faculty his venturesome faith in the opportunities which would challenge the College in ensuing years, his understanding of what would be required by way of focussed planning and purpose and a realistic appreciation of the need for more adequate facilities and financial support. He realized, as did they, that long years of undernourishment had limited its development and its impact and perhaps had dulled somewhat the imaginative reach of its effort. But he realized and appreciated the dedicated devotion and the zeal with which his colleagues were investing their lives in its service.

To attempt a review of what has happened at and in and to the College during these years would require more space than can be allotted here. I must assume that most of those who read these lines realize fully the nature and size and significance of this transformation. What I wish to emphasize is the part played by William Gaige in the nourishment of the spirit in which it took place. He guided it. He inspired some of it. He provided stimulus and imagination and he exercised and imposed restraint. He respected the past and those who had helped to make it and he planned to build upon it.

He realized the needs of the State and the obligation they imposed upon its institutions. He envisioned the educational ways and means by which these needs could be met and he had confidence in the State’s willingness to support such an effort. He conserved the human resources he found when he came and opened up new opportunities for constructive accomplishment. He brought new and younger colleagues with varied backgrounds of training and experience and with diverse interests and objectives and he cultivated working relationships which insured balance and proportion while stimulating experimental change. The watchwords were not reversal and reform but evolutionary development and maturing growth.

In all of this, William Gaige had partners, many of them. They included the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, the Alumni and Students, the Executive and Legislative Officers of the State and the People themselves. All have had a hand in what has been wrought on the campus of Rhode Island College. William Gaige will always be remembered for the fact that, with personal integrity, with vision and imagination and with faith and courage, in his post as President, he helped, he guided and he inspired all of us to higher levels of achievement in the service of the College which he served with such distinction and devotion.

James P. Adams

Dr. James P. Adams was Chairman of the Board of Trustees of State Colleges during the years 1955-60. He worked with Dr. Gaige in the acquisition of the land for the new campus and in the planning of the new facility for the first seven buildings on the new site. He was Chairman when the College was renamed and its programs extended by act of the legislature. Dr. Adams is an honorary member of both the faculty and the alumni of the College. The College library bears his name.

At the opening of the current school year, Rev. Vincent Maynard was named chaplain at Rhode Island College by the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney, Bishop of Providence. A graduate of Our Lady of Providence Seminary and St. Bernard’s Seminary, Father Maynard was ordained in June, 1966.

Rev. Richard Peck has started his third year as chaplain. His role as protestant chaplain is supported cooperatively by several protestant churches.

Both chaplains are supported by their respective churches but the College gives them all the privileges of faculty status.
More students need more space and facilities to meet, to work, to live. The 1966 fall convocation was held in the Walsh Center so all of the faculty and student body could be accommodated.

The 1966 state colleges bond issue requires authorization by the voters on November 8 if Rhode Island College, the University of Rhode Island and Rhode Island Junior College are to continue to expand their facilities to meet current demands. As described in the June issue of the News, the referendum article includes $6,500,000 for expansion and development of the University of Rhode Island including buildings and additions and classrooms, a fine arts center, a home management house, physical education playfields, improvements to utilities and sanitary facilities, roadways and parking areas, acquisition of land and buildings, and site development; $4,000,000 for the further development of the Rhode Island Junior College including a resource and study center, a guidance, instruction and faculty center, a student services facility, necessary utilities, roadways and parking areas, and site development; and $1,800,000 for expansion and development of Rhode Island College including a classroom building, an addition to Roberts Hall, faculty center and dining facilities, student infirmary facilities, physical education playfields, necessary utilities, roadways and parking areas, and site development. The careful, long-range planning that has guided the development of the three institutions up to now includes these needs as essentials for minimal support of the state's program of higher education during the next few years.

Every alumnus is urged to lend his support by voting, and reminding family, friends and neighbors of the importance of remembering to approve the state colleges item in the referendum column.

Urge your friends and colleagues to vote approve for the State Colleges Development Program.
ALUMNI LECTURE
OCTOBER 10th

JAMES MACGREGOR BURNS will deliver the annual Alumni Lecture Monday evening, October 10, at 8 p.m. in the Auditorium of Roberts Hall. Dr. Burns is James Phinney Baxter III, Professor of History and Public Affairs at Williams College.

A graduate of Williams College with his Ph.D. from Harvard University, Dr. Burns has taught at Williams since 1941. He taught at the Salzburg Seminar in Austria in 1954 and 1961. He received the Woodrow Wilson prize and a Taminent Award in 1960. He served as combat historian in operations on Guam, Saipan and Okinawa 1943-1945 and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and four battle stars. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1958 and has served on the staff of the Hoover Commission in Washington and a “Baby Hoover Commission” in Boston.

FACULTY RECEPTION

College faculty members and their wives were honored at the annual alumni reception for the college faculty held Sunday, November 25 in the Alumni Lounge, Roberts Hall.

Elena Calabro Leonelli (Mrs. Renato) served as chairman, with members of the executive board serving as hosts.

Suggested Criteria for Selection of the President for Rhode Island College

Submitted to the Board of Trustees of State Colleges by the Executive Board of the Rhode Island College Alumni Association, July 30, 1966.

The Alumni Board of Rhode Island College wish first to express their gratitude to the Board of Trustees of State Colleges for the confidence they have shown in the Alumni in asking their help in the selection of the new President of Rhode Island College.

We commend the Board on its intention to canvass widely and intensively to find the best candidate for the position and we urge that this search should allow no limits because of age, sex, geographic location, or any other factor not directly pertinent to the qualification of the person for the presidency. It would be hoped, however, that the candidate should have the prospect of a substantial number of years of vigorous service. Furthermore, we trust that efforts to find qualified candidates from near and far should not minimize the consideration of a candidate with Rhode Island affiliations. The best individual who can be found should be chosen.

While it is difficult to assess the qualities that will insure success, we suggest that the following should be some of the criteria used in selecting the next President of Rhode Island College:

1. Proven Scholarship and Professional Commitment:

Rhode Island College has a dual role in the Rhode Island community. It provides at once a strong academic college education for the young people of the state and serves as the principle source of the supply of teachers for the public schools of the state. The person who will serve as president of this institution must have given evidence of leadership in the area of scholarship and of professional education.

Scholarship is an attitude and a way of life. Only one who has himself developed it over a long period of time can truly inspire and nourish scholarship among young people. At this point in its development, Rhode Island College needs this kind of inspiration.

Teaching is regarded as both an art and a science. Professional education has in the past 50 years come to embrace a vast area of knowledges and skills directly related to the process of instruction from the kindergarten through adult education. In an institution from which most of its graduates will always be expected to move into teaching, it is essential that its leadership be thoroughly committed to and appreciative of the profession of teaching and should possess a knowledge of it based on experience in the teaching process.

2. Courage and Imagination

Rhode Island College has a proud history of service to the youth of Rhode Island who have been its students and to the schools of the State through the teachers it has educated. But the hallmark of the college has been change and its program has been constantly adjusted over the years to meet the new needs of the students and of the schools. To guide these changes requires knowledge, imagination and courage. The candidate for the presidency of Rhode Island College should give evidence of having the temerity and imagination to extend and alter the program of the college to meet the needs of the students and the State.

During the past decade Rhode Island College has expanded physically to meet the needs of the large number of qualified students seeking a college education. The new president must have sufficient strength of character and force of personality to carry on this expansion.

3. Integrity

During recent years Rhode Island College has re-emphasized its ideal of forthrightness and integrity, both in its dealings with the public and with the campus community. The president must be one who can continue this tradition.

4. Ability to Work Successfully with the College Community

As alumni we look back with varied emotions on our student days but with the common appreciation of the extent to which we were recognized by both faculty and administrators as individuals with our own interests and rights and as groups with need for experience and democratic experiences. The president of RIC should be able to comprehend and administer this dual acceptance of the student as an individual in need of understanding and guidance and as a member of an evolving democratic society.

An administrator is effective only through others; therefore, the president of Rhode Island College must be one who can work effectively with the particular complex of people represented on the faculty of Rhode Island College and in the political and social populace of the State of Rhode Island.

HOMECOMING WEEKEND SCHEDULE

Ronald and Bernardine (Sciotto) Di Orio, alumni coordinators for Homecoming, have announced two special alumni arrangements during Homecoming—a reserved area at the Ball, and a coffee hour following the soccer game.

The “weekend” will start with a parade of floats and Homecoming Queen candidates at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Dance will be held at the King Philip, Wrentham, Mass., Friday evening at 8 p.m. The semi-formal affair will be climaxed by the crowning of the homecoming queen at 11 p.m. Admission is five dollars a couple. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Reservations for the Dance may be made through fraternities or sororities, or by calling Ron or Bernie Di Orio at EL 3-3098.

The annual alumni-varsity soccer game will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. on the newly reopened College soccer field. The alumni team, defeated last year after a long series of victories, is anticipating a hard fight and another win. Al DeAndrade is organizing the team and will welcome all former players who can participate. Coffee will be served following the game in the Anchor Club room of the Walsh Physical Education Center.

Alumni soccer practice October 12, 10 a.m., Walsh Center.

Saxophonist Stan Getz will be featured at the Jazz Concert Saturday night at the Walsh Center. The 8 p.m. program will be opened by comedy folk singers Skelly and Paul, who will introduce Getz and his quartet.

Tickets for the Getz Concert may be obtained from the Alumni Office or at the door. Tickets sell for $2.75 and $2.25.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday the movie “Carousel” will be shown in the Auditorium of Roberts Hall. There will be no charge.

APPRECIATION DINNER OCTOBER 22nd

The Alumni Association has joined with faculty, staff and community leaders in sponsoring a dinner to honor Dr. Gaige on his resignation as president of Rhode Island College. Dinner at 8 p.m. will be preceded by a reception at 7 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from the several alumni on the committee and from the Alumni Office.

ALUMNI NEWS NOTES...

Congratulations and Best Wishes to Edna Maine Spooner and her husband, Leroy, on their Golden Wedding Anniversary, October 25. Mrs. Spooner took the kindergarten course and taught in Edgewood several years after graduation. During her married life she taught music in her home and has continued actively in music education. The Spooners live in Cranston. They have two children and five grandchildren.

1914
Susan Dodge Smith (Mrs. Byron N.) was hostess at her home on Freeman Parkway, Providence, to the class at a Reunion Tea on Saturday, May 21st. Twenty-nine members were present.

A decision in favor of Elizabeth Mc Knight Burke (Mrs. William), a Lincoln substitute teacher, has been handed down by Education Commission William P. Robinson, Jr.

A sum of $3,442 back pay with possible interest is involved. The essence of the case is that Mrs. Burke has served longer than the statutory 135 days thus qualifying her as a regular on the basis of $18 a day paid instructors. Mrs. Burke declined to accept "partial" payment and took the case to Dr. Robinson who met with the school board members.

Marion C. O'Donohue went on a ten day convention with the Daughters of Isabella to Miami Beach. About 2700 women from all parts of the country attended and then stopped over at Nassau for three days.

Katherine Toner McGuinness (Mrs. Howard) has just returned from a ten day guided tour to Nova Scotia. She enjoyed the delightful six hour cruise from Bar Harbor to Yarmouth, then visited the public gardens, the Citadel and other points of interest in Halifax.

Helen Doherty Lennox is still at Cullen's Rest Home in Millville, Woonsocket.

Hilda Johnson, principal of the William R. Dutemple School, Cranston, retired in June. Her interesting career covered a period spent in China as a missionary teacher, and a trip around the world. Her future plans include a month's visit to Scandinavia and a month in Great Britain.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Irene Riley Reilly (Mrs. Vincent) on the death of her son.

The Class of '21 had its third and final get together for the year on Wednesday, August 24, 1966, with 22 in attendance. Tot Sullivan and Agnes Cobb served as co-hostesses at Tot's home on the Boston Neck Road in North Kingstown. In that attractive setting, with the weather comfortable, and the luncheon delectable, everyone present pronounced it a perfect day!

Sister Mary Mercedes sent greetings from the Mohawk Indian Reservation in Hogansburg, New York, where she was teaching a two-week course in dictation.

Alice Murphy Barlow, formerly a teacher in the town of Bristol, is now teaching mathematics and science in the Mary V. Quirk Junior High School in Warren. This past summer she participated in the Title I federal project in Remedial Reading in Warren.

Moving into the Senior High School at West Warwick, Isabel Carter Martin (Mrs. John) will be the librarian there. She has been at the Scituate Junior-Senior High School since its opening.

Retirements are coming rapidly. Indeed only one-third of those at the reunions are now teaching Beatrice B. Mathewson, always among those present at class reunions, was feted by the Camden Avenue School faculty in June, 1966.

Barbara Doughy Quinn (Mrs. Thomas) who returned to teaching in South Dartmouth when her family was well grown has also retired. She reported that a round of parties made her exit a happy and memorable occasion.

Lillian Davley Tefft (Mrs. George), after teaching a number of years at the Potowomut School in Warwick, retired this spring. Lillian who has been quite ill for several months was in attendance at Tot's luncheon and had a hearty welcome from all present.

Also at the reunion at Tot's was M. Veronica Travers who retired in June. The Bristol Education Society entertained for her at the Holiday Inn at Seekonk. The Valley School teachers and nurses gave her a day to remember at the home of Miss Mary Ferguson, Bristol's school nurse.

Following her usual pattern, Amy Olson went tripping this year. She spent some time in Tulsa, Oklahoma, before going on to attend the Rose Parade in Pasadena, remaining three months in California. Another traveler was Tot Sullivan. She visited France and Switzerland as well as a number of other European countries including the British Isles.

Mildred C. Alger has resumed her duties as principal of the Mary E. Fogarty School, Providence, after a summer in Ireland.

Caroline Laudatii, principal of the Vazie Street School, Providence, is serving as corresponding secretary of the R. I. Elementary School Principals' Association.

Ethel Murphy has been elected as Delegate to the Department of Elementary School Principals (N.E.A.) by the R. I. group.

Marie Cahir Gilbride (Mrs. Joseph) has served as consultant to the Warwick P.T.A. Kindergarten program since her retirement from the Warwick Public School System.

1933
Dr. Adele L. Younis, a history professor at Salem State College, is about to publish a comprehensive book on the emigration of Arabic-speaking people to the United States.

Frances Steffy St. Germain (Mrs. James J.) of Andover, Mass., has recently celebrated her 25th wedding anniversary.

Sixteen of the twenty-four second generation Riceans in the entering class are pictured outside the Walsh Center following the Opening Convocation September 22. Left to right, first row: Kathleen Quinn (Mary Wheelan Quinn '41), Roberta Giorgio (Josephine Calabro Giorgio '41), Mary Jane Trombi (John '50 and Mary Jane Trombi '59), Yvette Cartier (Gerard Cartier '64); 2nd row: Mrs. Virginia Turner (Margaret Lee Ed.M. '65), Andrea Tworog (Katherine Lee Ed.M. '53), Susan Blackwell (A. Melvin Blackwell '37), Nancy McIntyre (Frances Jones McIntyre '39); 3rd row: Jane O'Reilly (James O'Reilly Ed.M. '53), Sally Donnelly (Edward Ed.M. '38 and Helen Dorney Donnelly '34), Susan McGarry (Helen Mathison McCartney '34); Debora Pelton (Ruth LeBoeuf Pelton '26); 4th: Peter Gilmartin (Phyllis Gately Gil­martin '34), Kevin Sorensen (Sherlock Ed.M. '51 and Ann Crawley Sorensen '40), Patrick Lenihan (Helen Murphy Lenihan '39), and James Evans (Irene Flynn Evans '23).

1934
Several classmates vacationed on foreign shores this summer. Among them were Mary Gallogly O’Donnell, Alberta Gavigan, Elizabeth H. McCaffrey, Sarah McNamara and Mary T. Higgins.
Mary Gallogly O’Donnell (Mrs. John) and her husband drove across southern Ireland enroute home from a European tour.
Alberta Gavigan spent three weeks in Ireland touring the country and visiting friends in Dublin.
Elizabeth McCaffrey and three friends enjoyed a tour of Lisbon, Madrid, Rome, Lucerne and London. They returned home by way of Ireland and Shannon Airport. Before starting the trip Betty completed a one year Adult Education Course in which she gave instruction in English to students who spoke Portuguese, French, Spanish and Chinese.
Sarah McNamara was another sojourner in Ireland this summer. This was Sarah’s third trip to the Emerald Isle in three years. She first saw Ireland on her way home from a European trip in 1964 and decided to spend more time there.
Mary Higgins flew to Lourdes, France on June 29th and after a three day visit there she and her companion, Enid Mowry, went to Amsterdam where they joined ten other Americans on a conducted tour of the Netherlands, Germany, Austria, Italy, France, London and Edinburgh. On August 7th they flew to Dublin where they attended shows at the New Abbey Theatre and the famous Gate Theatre. On tour of the south of Ireland Mary had an unexpected reunion with Alberta Gavigan in Wexford and with Mary Gollogly O’Donnell and her husband in Kenmare, County Kerry.
Gertrude Sullivan received a Master of Education degree in Elementary Education from RIC in June. She is currently teaching 6th grade in the Prospect Street School in Pawtucket.
Grace Tennant Greive (Mrs. Eric) has enrolled her daughter, Lynette Greive, in the freshman class at RIC. The family resides on Newport Road in Dunriff, Scotland.
Stella Simons Glassman (Mrs. Samuel) received her Masters of Library Science from the University of Rhode Island, June 12, 1966. She is librarian in the Central Falls school system.
Patricia A. Tickell (“Pat”) has been convention manager for the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. for the past fifteen years. She is also active in the National Association Executives in New York City.
Evelyn Sineinikoff Reimick (Mrs. Jack) has been appointed as a teacher of remedial reading in the secondary schools in the Springfield, Massachusetts school system. Evelyn has a daughter, Marilyn, a sophomore at the University of Massachusetts, and two twins, Bill and Bob, age seventeen.
Anna McCourt Scullin (Mrs. Alfred) returned to teaching three years ago. She now teaches fifth grade at Garvin School in Cumberland. Her husband is Superintendent of Ashton Post Office. They have five children: Alfred Jr. and John at Providence College, Mary Beth is at Cumberland High, Ann Marie and Steven attend St. Patrick’s in Cumberland.
Helen Mullin Lombardi (Mrs. Anthony) is a busy housewife and teacher at Cedar Hill School in Warwick. Her husband is tax assessor in West Warwick and operates Millville Country Club. Their eldest, Marin Pat, is a junior at RIC. Michael attends St. Joseph’s School and Diane is entering kindergarten at Kenton Country Day School.
Maevue Sherry Sullivan is a third grade teacher in Hope School in Scituate. She became a widow in 1957, after being married eight years.
During the past 26 years six ‘40 graduates have met for dinner on the first Friday of every month. Here is news about each of them.
Maevue Eagan Corry (Mrs. Francis) has been back teaching for six years and is now in special education at Lexington Ave. School. She is the mother of four children; two girls attend Bay View Academy. One son is a student at Central Jr. High and the other son attends Sacred Heart School, in East Providence.
Eileen Fitzpatrick is a fourth grade teacher at Webster Ave. School in Prov.
Mary Fitzgerald Murray (Mrs. John) is working on her masters in Library Science at URI. She has recently been appointed Ass’t Librarian in Cumberland School System. Her husband, Budget Officer for the state of R. I. has just returned from a convention in Hawaii.
Mary missed out on this trip because of the Airline strike. Her convention was originally scheduled for August but better luck next year, Mary! They have four children: John is a Sophomore at Bishop Feehan, Mark, Mary Ellen and Jeffrey attend Arnold Mills School.
Maevue M. Raftery, a critic teacher for the past nine years, has moved to 115 Larch St. Providence.
Mary Dolan, who received her Masters Degree at B.U. has been a guidance teacher at St. John’s High in Pawtucket for the past four years.
Anna Mulligan joins the First Friday Club from Woosocket, where she teaches Grade seven at Woosocket Jr. High School.
Helen Freethorn Low (Mrs. Andrew) writes: "You would probably like to know that we are enjoying our stay in Turkey very much. This year has certainly been different from anything we have done before. America. We have had a trip to Jordan and Israel, two of us have visited in Rome for about six weeks, and the others have all been there. Jessica and Laurinda are both in Paris this year, studying at the American College, while Jessica also took advantage of CASA (College Art Study Abroad) and added to her background in art, by studying Graphics and Advanced Oil Painting. She also transferred to Rhode Island School of Design next year, if we return to the United States. Drew is still attending Middle East Technical University, being one of only 12 students who attend. He will stay there if we return to the U.S. this year. "Andy" (B.Gen. Andrew S. Low, Jr. Ext. 39) enjoys his work advising the Turkish Air Force, and we certainly found the people very interesting. I am busy reading as much as possible about the country, which is filled with ruins, dating back to the Phoenicians. We have seen evidences of life as far back as 3000 BC.
Lucille Daige Carroll (Mrs. Francis) has returned to teaching in Woonsocket. Her oldest daughter is a junior at Salve Regina.
Edward Marion Litchfield (Mrs. Jack) were justly proud of daughter Patricia who graduated from Radcliffe College in June and was awarded a graduate fellowship at McGill University, and Susan, who graduated from the R. I. Hospital School of Nursing and has accepted a commission in the Navy Nurse Corps.
Hope V. Carey visited Athens this summer and later included an Aegean cruise and a trip to Switzerland.
