12-26-1990

The NicePaper: Jewish Trio to Perform at New Wave art Club

The NicePaper

Cybele

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.ric.edu/as220_root

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

This is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Commons @ RIC. It has been accepted for inclusion in AS220 Digital Archive by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ RIC. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@ric.edu.
at most synagogues during the High Holidays. Sad to say, most Jews who attend synagogue on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are not particularly knowledgeable Jewishly; too many are ignorant of the liturgy, ignorant of the musical traditions, ignorant of the Hebrew language. The formidable task with which the rabbi and cantor are faced is to create a spiritually satisfying worship experience, taking into account the tremendous range of knowledge, understanding, and abilities of those in attendance.

Ecclesiastes taught: “To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose.

While you’re waiting for First Night, there are a few other folk music activities planned this weekend. Friday night is “Providencetown” at AS 220, featuring Kevin Falcon; Jon Campbell and the Providence Cell Club Dancers at the 71 Richmond Street venue from 8:30 p.m. The planned appearance by the Argentine/Balinese ensemble Tita Antonio, band’s materialized, so some Providence characters have walked into the gap.

(continued from page 1)
quirkiness as well as the energy of contemporary music. The trio includes clarinetist Ben Goldberg, Kenny Wollesen on drums and Dan Seamans.