"Real Life in the 1990's": Clippings

The NicePaper
The Providence Journal-Bulletin

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.ric.edu/as220_root

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

This is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Commons @ RIC. It has been accepted for inclusion in AS220 Digital Archive by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ RIC. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@ric.edu.
This week's Tales From The Broadway: It's Thursday, I sort of have the day off — that's like having a loaded gun. I walk slowly, peering in every window. A man on a bike with a hat approaches me and extends greetings. Do I know this guy? I look further down the street half expecting the hearse. He hands me a manila envelope and invites me to a May breakfast at some kook church. I no longer go to breakfast; it hurts. Shut up, what's this got to do with anything? The cat in the hat was Mark Binder and he's got this drama thing called "Real Life in the 1990s," the true love story of a woman, a corpse and the assassination of the President. That's what he says, anyway. It premieres on Thursday at AS220, 71 Richmond Street, at exactly 7:30 and can also be seen at the Double Two-0 ranch on the 12th, 13th, 17th, 19th, and 20th of the month of May. The manila envelope contained a photograph for the Listings section, check it out. I was responsible for it for a short time.

REAL LIFE IN THE 1990s stars, from left to right, Robin Gosselin, Michael Merolla, James Dimeglia and Dave Almeida at AS220 Performance Theatre, Providence, through May 20. See Theater, Page D-14.